From Wiggle to Hop: Timmy the Tadpole's Big Change

Timmy was a tiny tadpole swimming in a clear pond. He loved to eat green algae and wiggle his long tail.

One warm day, Timmy felt a strange tingle on his sides. Soon, two tiny back legs began to grow! He used them to kick and push in the water. As more days passed, two front legs grew as well. A real fact about tadpoles is that they breathe with gills, just like fish. Timmy's long tail started to get shorter and shorter. Finally, Timmy was a little frog, ready to hop onto a lily pad. He wasn't a wiggler anymore; he was a hopper!
